The Rolling Stone Article written by David Browne positioned The Young Americans as one of this Country's Premiere and Most Enduring Performing Organizations. The Article is more than just an Inside Look at the Organization and its History but is an Account of how The Young Americans has been a Prism of American Culture and Music since 1962.

David Browne first reached out regarding this Piece in September 2018. The Research he has undertaken has allowed him to bring to Light the Credibility and Significant Role The Young Americans has had in Music and Performing Arts. While Music and Culture continue to intertwine, transect, transform and progress, an Organization such as The Young Americans has been True to its Mission and remained Relevant for nearly 60 Years.

In the Coming Summer Months, The Young Americans can be seen performing in Japan, Europe, and multiple Locations throughout the United States. The Young Americans College of the Performing Arts is accepting Auditions and Applications for those looking to join The Young Americans and become part of the Legacy.

The Young Americans, America's Musical Ambassador, was founded in 1962 and is a Charitable Organization dedicated to the Promotion of Understanding and Goodwill among People throughout the World through Music, Dance, Performance, Academic Education, and Cultural Interaction among Student Members and their Audiences. The Organization is built upon three Core Pillars.

The Young Americans College of the Performing Arts is a Conservatory-Style Program of Study for Students who wish to combine Intensive Performing Arts Training with Travel and Leadership Opportunities that broaden Understanding of the Global Community.
